PEWS IN OLD MEETING HOUSE.

Ages, Sexes and Conditions Carefully Segregated by Our Ancestors.Around three sides about on a level with the pulpit in the old meeting house at Hatfield extended the galleries, reached by staircases on the northeast and southeast corners, where in the front seats sat the singers, trebles on the north and basses on the south, and counters and tenors on the east. The next two rows of seats were occupied by children, girls in the north and boys in the south, and frolicsome youngsters they were, if we may judge by the frequency with which the town was obliged to renew the brass tips to the staves of the tithing men, three of whom were always on duty to keep the youth from disorder.Behind the children and still higher, in square pews against the wall, sat the young men and maidens, the latter on the north and the former on the south. One gallery pew was reserved for colored men and one for colored women, and, queerest of all, a high square pew over the north staircase was assigned to old maids and a similar pew over the south stairs to old bachelors. Just how many years these two classes had to number before they were promoted from the lower seats in the synagogue the records do not state, but that they sat in those exalted seats Samuel Dwight Partridge, to whom we are indebted for the description of the old meeting house, assures us is beyond question. The square pews on the floor were assigned to householders, according to wealth and social position. — Springfield Union.We would be pleased to have our readers, and the public generally, send in such items of news as may come under their observation, such as births, deaths, marriages, goings and comings, etc.
Many things transpire that we may overlook, hence we ask you to assist us in this matter that we may be able to publish ALL the news.This office has been made a collection agency for the medical work entitled MEDICOLOGY. Those who have contracted for the book should make their
